■ Meeting of the Economic, Agricultural, Environmental and Regional Policy Committee

Economic, Agricultural, Environmental and Regional Policy Committee

This standing committee of the Saeima was established during the 5th convocation of the Saeima in 1993. During the 9th convocation there was a period from November 2006 to late 2008, when the Committee was split into two separate committees: the Economic Committee and the Agricultural, Environmental and Regional Policy Committee. Since 2009 the two committees are reunited under the name of the Economic, Agricultural, Environmental and Regional Policy Committee (hereinafter—Committee). Currently the Committee consists of 12 members.

The Committee deliberates issues pertaining to economy, including agriculture, according to the procedure and provisions stipulated in the Constitution.

Before each reading the Committee holds meetings, where it considers draft laws together with representatives of society. Where appropriate, draft laws are submitted to a relevant subcommittee or an ad-hoc working group for preliminary drafting. Working groups comprise members of the Committee, representatives of relevant line ministries, the Latvian Association of Local and Regional Governments, non-governmental organisations, as well as relevant experts.

The Committee also performs parliamentary scrutiny over implementation of laws and the executive power within the scope of its competence. The Committee performs parliamentary scrutiny over the Ministry of Economics, Ministry of Agriculture, Ministry of Environmental Protection and Regional Development, Ministry of Climate and Energy, and Ministry of Transport.

The Committee exchanges information and works closely with other standing committees of the Saeima and holds joint meetings to discuss topical issues within the scope of the committees' competence, as well as to exchange information.

In the area of external policy, the Committee maintains contacts with relevant parliamentary committees from other countries and the European Parliament. Submissions, complaints and proposals are examined according to the procedure stipulated in relevant statutory regulations.

Subcommittees

Committees are authorised to appoint their members and invite other members of the parliament to form a maximum of two subcommittees that perform preparatory work and specific tasks.

In the 5th Saeima the Committee had four subcommittees: Industry and Energy, Transport and Maritime, Regional Development, and Agricultural Subcommittee.

In the 6th Saeima—the Agricultural Subcommittee.

In the 7th Saeima—the Maritime, Fishery and Transport Subcommittee, the Agriculture and Forestry Subcommittee, Industry, Energy and Construction Subcommittee, as well as the Environmental Subcommittee.

In the 8th Saeima—the Agriculture and Forestry Subcommittee and the Environmental Subcommittee.

In the 9th Saeima—the Energy Subcommittee.

In the 10th Saeima—the Natural Resources Subcommittee was established that covered environmental, agricultural and energy issues.

In the 11th Saeima—Environment Subcommittee and Innovation and Research Subcommittee.

In the 12th Saeima—Environment and Climate Policy Subcommittee and Information Technology and Innovative Entrepreneurship Subcommittee.

In the 13th Saeima—Environment and Climate Policy Subcommittee and Artisan and Small Business Subcommittee.

Entrepreneurship Development Subcommittee

In the 14th Saeima, the Committee has delegated the Subcommittee to perform parliamentary scrutiny over the implementation of the statutory regulations governing business and economic activity, as well as to continue improving the business environment.

Environmental, Climate and Energy Subcommittee

The Committee has delegated the Subcommittee to perform parliamentary scrutiny over the implementation of the statutory regulations on environmental protection, climate, and energy by considering them in an integrated manner, as well as to supervise the development of climate policy. ■
